

New Taichung City Hall Building

Taichung city and county officially merged into a single Taichung special municipality on Dec. 25, 2010. There are now 27 first-level city government agencies, whose offices are also being relocated at government centers around the city, including the new Taichung City Hall building to offer upgrade services.

Shurjoint stainless steel couplings were specified to use on the AC Ethylene Glycol Piping System of New Taichung City Hall building for their speed of installation, safety and ease of maintenance since each coupling acts as a union, allowing easy access to the system. By utilizing Shurjoint products, the contractor was able to reduce the construction schedule and requiring less skilled labor.

location

Taichung, Taiwan

year

2010

application

HVAC

productline

VSH Shurjoint

architect

Building

